

Does Multiple Intelligences Based Instruction Have an Effect on Students' Attitudes & Achievement?

Appendix J

Wilderness Survival Opinionnaire

Directions: Read each of the following statements. Write A on the line if you agree with the statement of D if you disagree with it. Be prepared to explain your answers.

- ___ 1. Only the fittest survive in the wilderness.
- ___ 2. It is better to take risks in life than to be too cautious.
- ___ 3. Humans cannot win against nature.
- ___ 4. Most people deserve their fate.
- ___ 5. True heroes put themselves in dangerous situations and then get out of them.
- ___ 6. People should listen to their instincts, especially in the wilderness.
- ___ 7. A brave person can overcome all obstacles.
- ___ 8. A little knowledge is a dangerous thing.
- ___ 9. Animals are smarter than people.
- ___ 10. It is better to make your own mistakes than to listen to advice from others.
- ___ 11. Frostbitten fingers are not life-threatening in the wilderness.
- ___ 12. People who ignore other people's advice are self-reliant and smart.
- ___ 13. It is better not to think about our problems.
- ___ 14. There is no such thing as luck when it comes to survival in the wilderness. People have to make their own luck if they expect to survive.
- ___ 15. Physical strength is the most important quality needed for a person to survive in the wilderness.
- ___ 16. Survival in subzero temperatures depends on thinking through each problem carefully.

Does Multiple Intelligences Based Instruction Have an Effect on Students' Attitudes & Achievement?

Appendix J

- ___ 17. Intelligence is the key to survival in harsh conditions.
- ___ 18. Careful planning is the most important thing when it comes to survival in subzero temperatures.
- ___ 19. Always expect the worst to happen in the wilderness.
- ___ 20. Luck is just as important as anything else when it comes to survival in extreme conditions.

Adapted from Johannessen, L. R. (1994). The call of adventure: Jack London's "To Build a Fire." Notes Plus, 12 (1), 11-15.